DEMOCRATS AGREE ON POINTS OF FAIR PLAY IN CONGRESS

'We Are Not Bushwhackers,' Says Underwood in Outlining Programme.

'WE WILL COOPERATE'
Mr. Wilson Concur Except on Single Issue of League of Nations.

WILL KEEP UP THE FIGHT
Confident of Nation Reversing
Its Verdict on Treaty of Versailles.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
New York Herald Bureau.
Washington, D. C., March 7.

"We are not bushwhackers," said Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama to-day, referring to the attitude of the minority party in Congress. "It is not our intention to lecture or to obstruct for mere partisan advantage. There is real obvious need of constructive legislation. The problems that must be solved to restore prosperity and to stabilize conditions are so great that they call upon all Americans for patriotic service."

"The Republican majority must take the lead in and the responsibility for reconstruction, and wherever and whenever we believe they are right—and our point of view will not be a narrow, partisan one—we will cooperate and help."

Leaders in Accord.

Coming from the man who is the rallying figure today in Washington of the leaders of the Democracy, that promise of fair play and unbiased action in Senate and House is especially interesting. Senator Underwood looks larger than ever as the intelligent and far-seeing leader of the opposition party, and without any question the policy he outlined will be the one to which he will seek to lead.

Not only Senator Underwood, as the legislative leader, but other important figures of the Democracy appear to have agreed on a policy of non-obstruction. When ex-Gov. James M. Cox was here some weeks ago and had conferences with many leaders he advised agreement on a policy of non-obstruction. George White, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, gave similar advice. The followers of William G. McAdoo took the same course.

"Let's keep hands off and give them their opportunity," was the agreement arrived at by leaders of all factions in the Democratic party.

To-day the extremely interesting news was obtained by THE NEW YORK HERALD that ex-President Wilson feels the same way about the course to be taken by the minority, with one exception, that being the League of Nations. One who is familiar with the ex-President's position cannot be challenged said:

"Mr. Wilson wants to live here so that he can keep in touch with the leaders of his party. It is not his desire that the minority in Congress should play the part of faultfinder and trouble-maker. He holds that the Republican party has been commissioned by the people to produce legislation that will solve pressing problems and that it is the duty of the Democratic party to keep hands off."

"One issue alone Mr. Wilson will not abandon in the slightest degree. That is the League of Nations. From time to time he expects to issue statements reiterating his faith in the league covenant and in the treaty of Versailles, and he will do all that seems wise to advance its cause. He declines to believe that the league is dead, and confidently expects the nation to reverse its verdict."

Underwood's Statement.

"When Senator Underwood was asked to-day what course had been decided upon by the minority in Congress as regards the numerous legislative propositions that will be submitted, many of which were outlined in President Harding's inaugural speech, he replied:

"In so far as I can speak for my colleagues, I can promise that in neither branch of Congress will the minority seek to play politics. It will not be our policy to sit by and snarl business. Everybody knows there are great evils to be corrected. There is reconstruction to be accomplished. Work must be done and done soon for which the whole country is waiting. It would be poor patriotism to attempt to interfere with this reconstruction just to try to make a party record for future use."

"Naturally we intend to keep the party record straight, and that is something very far from outright obstruction. On the question of the tariff we shall declare ourselves in accordance with the traditional principles of the Democracy. It may be that when we come to revise taxation the minority will have to take a stand for principle's sake. On the question of foreign relations, we certainly will not stultify ourselves by repeating what the party has stood for in recent times."

BANK WILL OPEN NEW BRANCH IN MOROCCO
British West Africa Announces Further Expansion.

It is announced by the New York agents of the Bank of British West Africa, 100 Beaver street, that a new branch of the bank has been opened at Mogador, Morocco. This is one of the largest and most important of the British colonial banks, among its principal shareholders being three of the "big five" British banks, the Lloyds Bank Limited, National Provincial and Union Bank of England, Limited, and the London County Westminster and Parrs Bank, Limited. The Standard Bank of South Africa is also a large shareholder, and these two banks cover completely the continent of Africa. Sir Frederick Eley, recently resigned general manager of the National Provincial and Union Bank of England, Limited, and now in the United States.

The bank has long been a pioneer in the opening up of new markets and establishing commercial relations with important but little known centers. It now maintains forty-four branches in important centers in North and West Africa. Three offices in England and a branch in Hamburg, and close connections in France and Belgium cover the continent thoroughly. With the opening of the branch at Mogador the bank has eight offices in Morocco, which is indicative of the importance of that country in future world trade.

BAN ON BERGER NEWSPAPER UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

Postmaster-General Within Rights in Denying Second Class Mail Privileges for Violation of Espionage Act, Says Decision, Justices Brandeis and Holmes Dissenting.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Authority of the then Postmaster-General, Albert S. Burleson, to withdraw second class mail privileges from any publication which violated the espionage act through printing articles "tending to create insubordination or disloyalty" in the military or naval forces was upheld to-day by the Supreme Court. Associate Justices Brandeis and Holmes dissented.

The court sustained the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in its refusal to issue a mandamus order compelling the restoration of the privilege to the Milwaukee Leader, of which Victor Berger was editor. The Leader in carrying its appeal to the Supreme Court was joined by the New York Call, a newspaper to which also was denied second class mail privileges during the war.

"Whatever injuries the relator suffered was the result of its own choice," declared Associate Justice Clark, who in reading the majority opinion recited excerpts from the newspaper.

"These articles were not designed to secure a modification or repeal of the laws they criticized, but were intended to stir up opposition to them and insubordination."

not use the wheel chair which is usually called into service for him when he has to go down stairs. Senator Knox quelled the riot of questions by smilingly saying:

"We cannot say a word. White House conferences are always discussed by the President. That has been the rule for a thousand years, more or less."

Senators Smoot and Johnson were the next to pass the barrier of reporters, but they, too, refused to reveal the details of the evening's discussion. They admitted many things of importance had been the subject of the conference, but refused their questioners to the President himself, who, they said, would disclose whatever there was to tell.

"We can tell you one thing of great importance," said Representative Tower. "President and Mrs. Harding are superb hosts and served a magnificent dinner. Don't forget to put that in your story and so on as far as you like. That's something we can tell you that the President is likely not to mention."

When it was found that the President was to make a statement on the conference there was a rush toward the White House door.

President Tells of Discussion.

When the Senators and Representatives had gone President Harding came to the door to talk with the newspaper correspondents. He explained that the Congress leaders had desired information as to what the President would be called. They wanted the information, he added, in order that they might arrange for their vacation after the hard session they had experienced.

In realization of the situation he made plain he gave the assurance that the extra session would not be called before April 4, and it might be a week later. This meant one thing, of course—either the session will be called for April 4 or it will be April 11. It was indicated that a definite announcement would be forthcoming from the White House within a few days.

Mr. Harding explained that domestic issues only had been discussed at the conference which followed the dinner. This due to a question as to whether international issues had been considered. He added that one of the features had been the problem of whether tariff or taxation should be taken up first. It was plain that a division of opinion had developed. It was indicated that the matter will be taken up by the Ways and Means Committee and decided finally at another White House conference.

Mr. Harding laid stress on the fact that it is his purpose to hold frequent conferences of this character to insure better cooperation between Congress and the Executive. He described himself as believing that a definite programme should be arranged for Congress rather than to have the Senate and House go aimlessly along without any apparent scheme. He made it clear that he wants the path cut out in advance, so that it may be followed by all those concerned with its success.

The question was put as to whether there was any possibility of a combination of the tariff and the taxation bills, but Mr. Harding indicated there had been no decision on this. The impression was, however, there would be no combination of the bills.

Another question put to Mr. Harding was whether the matter of disarmament was discussed, but it was made clear that such discussion as there was, was very general. This, it seemed, did not take an important place in the consideration.

It was said that the general legislative situation as left by the Sixty-sixth Congress when it adjourned under the law on Friday noon was canvassed.

T. ALBUS ADAMS HEADS JERSEY TUNNEL BOARD
Chairman Is Identified With Numerous Corporations.

T. Albus Adams of Montclair, president of the Manhattan Refrigerating Company at Gansevoort, West and Horatio streets in New York city, was elected chairman of the New Jersey Interstate Bridge and Tunnel Commission at a meeting in Trenton yesterday afternoon. The commission will have charge of the proposed vehicular tunnel under the Hudson River between New York and New Jersey. E. Morgan Barradale of South Orange was elected secretary after the adoption of an amendment proposed by Walter H. Noyes of Tenafly limiting the term of the secretary to April 30, 1921.

The elevation of Mr. Adams to the chairmanship was favored by the majority of officials and others in New Jersey who are familiar with his work in furthering the tunnel project. He often has been called in his own State "the father of the vehicular tunnel," and has been one of the most effective forces in promoting that project and its companion undertaking, the Delaware River Bridge. He has been a member of the New Jersey commission since the inception of the plan, and his work has included the distribution of tens of thousands of illustrated folders, prepared and published at his own expense, showing the traffic congestion at the ferries and arguing the need of the tunnel. He is a native of New York and his business interests are in this State.

SENATE RATIFIES 4 FOREIGN PACTS IN RECORD TIME

Several Others Advanced for Speedy Consideration and Quick Disposal.

CUMMINS IS LEADER
Senator From Iowa Chosen
President Pro Tem. and Other Offices Filled.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
New York Herald Bureau.
Washington, D. C., March 7.

The Senate made a new record for speed to-day in the first real session held in the new Administration. Following a meeting of the Foreign Relations Committee, which by unanimous action placed before it nearly a dozen treaties, the Senate ratified four in executive session, referred four to the State Department for further advice and made several others, including the Colombian treaty, ready for consideration to-morrow. In addition to confirming many nominations.

Reorganization of the Senate was completed as a matter of routine in the open session, Senator Cummins (Iowa) being chosen President pro tem., and the officials of the Senate, such as secretary, sergeant-at-arms and other minor places being approved in accordance with recommendations of the Republican conference. The Democrats went through the form of presenting their candidates for these offices and were defeated by party votes.

The four treaties ratified to-day were:

The arbitration treaty with Portugal of 1908 was extended for five years.

The treaty of 1837 with Greece, regulating by agreement commerce and navigation between the two countries, was reaffirmed.

The treaty to exempt the samples of American commercial travelers in Argentina from the payment of customs duties was ratified.

The treaty to extend to Hawaii the terms of the convention with Great Britain relating to the tenure and disposal of property was ratified.

Facts which were referred to the State Department for further advice and recommendation include the following:

The establishment of gold clearance funds with Guatemala, Paraguay, Panama and Haiti for the purpose of stabilizing exchange.

Proposed termination of the international sanitary convention, which may be terminated by this country because of the failure of certain governments to observe its provisions.

The treaty with Spain, revising treaties of amity and commerce.

The treaty with China confirming the imposition of a 5 per cent. ad valorem duty on goods imported into China by American citizens.

The Committee on Foreign Relations reported favorably to the Senate, with one amendment, the proposed extradition treaty between the United States and Canada, affecting American citizens who have deserted their wives and minor children. The amendment confined the application of extradition proceedings merely to deserters of minor children. It is expected that this will be disposed of to-morrow.

The Colombian treaty will face a fight when it is taken up for consideration. It had not been determined when the Senate adjourned to-day whether this will be considered at once, as those in charge of it intend to confer with the President and the Secretary of State as to their desires. A majority of the Senate is in favor of disposing of it now, believing that its ratification will be enormously valuable in the promotion of better relations with all South American republics.

The nominations of Henry P. Fletcher to be Under Secretary of State, Major-General Lejeune to be Commandant of the Marine Corps, Brigadier-General Barnett to be Major-General in the Marine Corps and a score or more of secretaries of embassies and legations sent to the Senate by the President were confirmed.

Nominations of Theodore Roosevelt to be Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Elmer D. Ball as Assistant Secretary of Agriculture were received, referred to committees and probably will be confirmed to-morrow, no opposition having appeared to-day. They were referred to committees merely because the nominations were unexpected to-day, and therefore the committees had not been canvassed, according to custom.
